

Beryl Barr-Sharrar is Adjunct Professor of Fine Arts, Institute of Fine Arts, NYU. She was awarded a Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship to write a book: "Shapes of Hellenistic Luxury: Gold, Silver, and Bronze Symposium Vessels from Philip II of Macedonia until the End of the Roman Republic." Recent publications are "Assertions by the Portable: What Can Bronze Statuettes Tell Us About Major Classical Sculpture?" in Papers of the 18th International Congress on Ancient Bronzes, 2015, J. Paul Getty Museum, 2017, and a review of Power and Pathos. Bronze Sculpture of the Hellenistic World (Daehner, J. and K. Lapatin, eds.), in the Journal of Roman Archaeology, October 2017.