

Silvana Blazevska, Ph.D., director of the National Institution for Management of the Archaeological Site Stobi, since its foundation in 2009. Her primary professional interest is archaeology of Classical, Hellenistic and Roman period. She participated at many scientific conferences and published scholarly papers in various archaeological periodicals and publications. As a director of the archaeological site Stobi, she gained her experience dealing with many aspects of cultural heritage preservation and presented the model of the site management at several international meetings.