

*Athanasia Kyriakou, PhD in Classical Archaeology, works as Laboratory Teaching Staff at the School of History and Archaeology, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, and in the Vergina Excavation Project of the same university as basic researcher, tutor and field coordinator. Her research focuses on burial practices, identities, biographies, pottery, weaponry and jewelry. The fundamental issues addressed in the monograph The Stenomakri Toumba at Vergina. Burial practices in Macedonia in the 4th c. BC (2008) (in Greek) have been further elaborated in her subsequent studies.*