

Dr Vasiliki Misailidou-Despotidou, Emeritus Director of Antiquities of Greek Ministry of Culture

Vasiliki Misailidou-Despotidou studied Archaeology and Art at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki (1972-77) and Classical Archaeology as postgraduate studies at the University of Oxford in England (Master of Philosophy 1984-86) and at AUTH (PhD 2003). She worked as an archaeologist in Greek Archaeological Service from 1978 until 2014, when she retired. From 2010 to 2014 she was Director, firstly, of the Archaeological Institute of Macedonian and Thracian Studies, then of the 16th Ephorate of Prehistoric and Classical Antiquities and lastly of the Ephorate of Antiquities of the city of Thessaloniki. She participated in many excavations such as in Sindos, Rhodos, Pella etc. and in the recent years she was responsible for the excavations in Athytos, N. Potidaia and Thessaloniki (Metro). Her research activity focuses on ancient Greek pottery, minor arts, sculpture, coroplastic and inscriptions. She wrote many books and articles and took part in many conferences.